Payment Rate Is Far Less Than Average

Zollar, ARIC Spark Move To Correct Situation

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

Because Berrien county's support money from divorced, separated or natural father is far below average, State Social Services officials agreed here Friday to a program to put more squeeze on the evading fathers.

At a meeting called by State Senator Charles Zollar of Benton Harbor, State Social Services Director Bernard Houston promised funds to foot the cost of special personnel in three county offices in Berrien county. The offices involved will be the county prosecutor's office, the friend of the court office and the county social services department.

ADC COSTS SOARING

The program is one part of a promised effort to try to cope with mounting costs of ADC welfare in the county. Senator Zollar said ADC cases in the county now are growing at a rate of almost 1,400 new families a year. He said 104 new families went on public welfare in June and 113 more joined in July.

Director Houston said funds can be made available to add one coordinator in the county social services department whose job will be to handle child support matters at the department level. Funds also will be made available for one or two assistants in the county prosecutor's office to initiate legal steps against laggard fathers of ADC recipients, and for reinforcement personnel in the friend of the court office to enforce the collection of court-ordered support payments.

Houston said he expects the program can be put into full operation by Oct. 1.

Zollar and members of the social services committee of the Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC) said county officials have indicated their backing for a program that will force fathers of welfare cases to live up to their financial responsibility for their own children.

Zollar said a breakdown of the 113 new families added to ADC rolls in Berrien in July showed that family breakup (divorce, separation and desertion) accounted for 53 cases, illegitimacy for 34, unemployment for 13, incapacitation for 8 and death for 5.

RECRUITED FOR DOLE

Zollar said some of the rapid rise in ADC cases is resulting from the fact that some governmental and private agencies are actually recruiting and encouraging people to get on the welfare rolls.

Two agencies mentioned by name were Tri-Cap, the local anti-poverty agency supported by government funds, and the United Migrant Opportunities, Inc., a private group financed by public anti-poverty funds.

While the main focus of the meeting, held at the ARIC offices in Benton Harbor, was on improving child support collections, the discussion ranged over much of the gamut of welfare problems.

Mrs. Lois Lamont, director of program development for the state social services department, said ADC cash grants plus side benefits are the equivalent of a job paying $3 per hour.

REP. FARNSWORTH MAKES COMPARISON

State Rep. James Farnsworth of Allegan said the state is spending more on welfare this year than on higher education.

"What you're up against," Farnsworth stated, "is a determined national effort to put 30 million poor people on welfare."

He said welfare rights groups, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and a variety of private organizations including religious institutions are working determinedly to that goal. Recruitment of the poor to get them on the rolls will continue, he said, and probably will be intensified.

Zollar said the state has budgeted for 53,000 welfare families this year, but that the figure probably will climb over the 100,000 mark this year.

Mrs. Lamont said that when courts order fathers to pay less than $15 a week support for children in divorce or paternity cases, they are almost automatically consigning the children to ADC support, because that sum is below the level for ADC qualification.

WIN PROGRAM FAILS

Director Houston said the Work Incentive program (WIN), designed to train able-bodied welfare recipients for employment, is a "failure."

Figures presented on the WIN program in Berrien county indicated that 400 persons were referred from the county social services department as being eligible for employment training. Of these, 200 have already gone through the WIN program. Only 26 have been placed in employment.

Howard Sousley, coordinator of employment services for the state social services department, told the group of plans to try to direct welfare applicants to training and employment when they first apply for welfare. The longer a person is on welfare, he said, the less favorably he is inclined toward making the effort to be employed.

Houston said the number of appeals — to get on welfare or to avoid being dropped from the rolls — has risen in recent years from an average of about 200 a year to 1,200 to 1,400 now. A great many of the appeals, he indicated, are brought by attorneys for agencies operating with public anti-poverty funds. In effect, Houston, two governmental agencies, the Office of Economic Opportunity and Social Services, are using public resources to fight each other.

DWAN IS CHAIRMAN

J. Parnell Dwan of St. Joseph is chairman of the social services committee of ARIC which has been probing the welfare program and its effects upon the community. It was at the request of this committee that Senator Zollar invited the state and county social welfare officials to yesterday's meeting.

Ex-Detroit Mayor Off To Prison

DETROIT (AP) — A former Detroit mayor is en route to a federal prison in Sandstone, Minn., today to serve a one-year sentence on an income tax evasion conviction.

Louis C. Miriani, 73, was granted the unusual request to travel alone to prison for health reasons. U.S. Dist. Judge Thomas F. Thornton granted the request Friday.

Miriani was convicted in 1968 of failing to pay $163,000 in federal taxes on income of more than $259,000 during 1956 to 1961 while he was mayor.

In addition to the prison sentence, he was fined $40,000.

Grand Jury Probing Payments To Medics

Medicare, Medicaid Costs Soar

LANSING — A grand jury will investigate alleged overpayments to physicians under medicare and medicare programs in Michigan, State Sen. Charles O. Zollar (R-Benton Harbor) announced Friday.

Zollar, who is chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, has sought a probe of the health programs since last year.

He said Friday that Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley decided to have the 13-member Wayne county grand jury investigate the matter.

The decision was well-comed by Zollar who said that his committee recently added "pertinent information of some significance" regarding the investigation. Zollar said this information immediately will be made available to the attorney general's office. He said other files already are in the hands of the attorney general.

Zollar said he doesn't know exactly when the investigation will be turned over to the grand jury, but anticipated the move soon.

Zollar said earlier that medicare payments increased 12.5 per cent between 1968 and 1969, while Blue Shield administrative costs went up 42.3 per cent over the same period. The Blue Shield administers the health programs under contract with the state.

Simultaneously last winter, the state Social Services department criticized the Blue Shield, charging that its members were not able to secure enough information on medical and administrative costs of Blue Shield.

Zollar said Friday that "I am very pleased that the attorney general has decided to turn the facts over to the grand jury; it's about time we finally got to the bottom of this mess."

Zollar continued: "I will assist in this investigation in any way I can. I have already turned all of my files over to the attorney general in an effort to expedite the resolution of some discrepancies. If I am summoned (before the grand jury) I will appear."

Time To Shut Off
This Family Fight

Some months ago the Michigan Republican chieftains met twice at Lansing on the strategy of how to knock off Senator Phil Hart in the November election. The first meeting was inconclusive.

Most of the delegates thought Lenore Romney would be the best bet, but nobody particularly wanted to go on record immediately to that effect.

The second session accorded her its approval as a consensus candidate.

A consensus candidate is one bearing such a wide endorsement from the party leadership that anyone else harboring thoughts of stirring a primary battle is expected to take the hint to stay home.

Robert Huber, a State Senator from Troy, declined to take the hint and at the August 4th primary came close to beating out Mrs. Romney. Instead of the 60 to 70 per cent margin her managers had predicted, she edged him by a scant four points.

Considering how few people outside his district and the capital's milieu knew Huber before he defied the establishment, the man did astonishingly well.

Two elements went into what his friends justifiably could call a moral victory.

Lenore's husband never set well with the GOP's conservative wing and throughout the campaign she neither said nor did anything to dispel this Old Bull resentment that George was the real candidate.

Huber spoke pointedly at all times. The reporters following him on the campaign trail for the most part disagreed with his views but were impressed by his frankness in responding to questions. He calls a spade a spade. This is such a refreshing departure from most campaign dialogue that Huber's conservative outbursts almost outgunned Lenore's vaguely worded generalities.

This vagueness to the contrary, Lenore's 52-48 percentage indicates most Michigan Republicans do not believe they can depend on a Goldwater type of candidate to send Hart back to private life.

This was the reasoning for Governor Milliken calling the Lansing consensus meetings.

That the primary sustained Milliken's judgment by a much lower margin than anticipated is no reflection against his insight, but simply a failure of his appointment to come out swinging.

Nor, however, does the primary support Huber's demand for a 50-50 share in the party leadership on pain of him calling upon his followers to take a powder in November.

This, we fear, is basically what may well happen this afternoon at the George Behrends residence in New Buffalo. Behrends last year became chairman of what was called the United Republicans. As measured in today's public preference for a moderate position, the United Republicans are 180 degrees to the right of Goldwater.

We recall not too many years ago when Paul Bagwell, the MSU professor, took a fling at Soapy Williams. The GOP bigwigs became miffed at Bagwell and shut off the purse strings. Probably Soapy would have won regardless of how well Bagwell was supported financially, but the spillovers took the precaution of making sure their own party member would never bother them again.

This spoil sport act is not the prerogative of either party or of any state organization. It is simply a damn shame that some people really prefer to cut off their noses to spite their faces.

If Huber picks up his marbles and goes home this time, Hart's victory is assured and we would want long odds on Milliken replacing Sandy Levin.

But if such a caper elevates Huber later on beyond where he is at now, then future primary candidates will be trying to make certain they lose the elimination contest.

Cholera Appears

Outbreaks of cholera, a potentially deadly disease, have been reported in several Asian and African countries, including Syria, Egypt, South Korea and Soviet Central Asia. A harder strain than some cholera viruses of the past, the new wave of cases could reach epidemic proportions in Asia, North Africa and Latin America before it is contained, according to an official of the bacterial diseases branch of the United States Public Health Service's center for disease control in Atlanta.

Cholera is an old ailment, caused principally by contaminated water and food and usually found in India, Pakistan and other parts of Asia. Pandemics of the disease in the past have occurred in Europe and North America, although not for a number of years. There were several cases in New Mexico this year.

The continued existence of infectious diseases such as cholera pose an added problem in the jet age. Passengers flying from one continent to another may literally be worlds away in a matter of hours, long before signs of a disease such as cholera may appear.

Elementary medical care and sanitary conditions can reduce the death rate from cholera to less than 1 percent, but untreated it can kill as high as 60 percent of its victims.

A special alert is needed now to keep the disease from spreading beyond those areas already infected.

Termites generally attack only dead wood or wood products, but a species found in Panama carried fungi with it to kill trees so the insects can eat them.

COURTHOUSE CLEAN-UP

Supervised by Ben Nutt, grounds superintendent at Andrews university, a crew of AU students cleaned up grounds of old Berrien County courthouse in Berrien Springs.

Completed in 1839, the picturesque courthouse was vacated in 1885 when the county seat was moved to St. Joseph. About 1902 it was used as an administration building and classrooms when Emmanuel Missionary college, predecessor of Andrews university, moved to Berrien Springs from Battle Creek. Later it was converted to a church by Seventh-day Adventists and used for weekly services until three years ago when it was resold to Berrien county and leased to Berrien County Historical society for use as a museum.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew is the latest to brand the story that the administration is considering cancelling the 1972 presidential election a fraud.

But don't bet that we have heard the last of this preposterous rumor. The item is simply too juicy for journalists who care for accuracy to leave alone.

The strongly worded Agnew statement was prompted by an article in the August issue of a leftwing muckracking magazine that links the vice president's office with the alleged plan to cancel the 1972 national election and repeal the Bill of Rights.

The magazine reproduced part of what it claimed to be a "confidential memorandum" written on stationery with the heading "The Vice President" to document the story. The stationery, however, was Military sources said British guns had fired "a few rounds" at German cannon bombarding the important channel port of Dover from the French coast.

DR. COLEMAN

.. And Speaking Of Your Health

Shortages of blood for transfusions continue despite the dedicated efforts of Bloodmobiles of the Red Cross and other organizations. It is for this reason that blood substitutes are constantly being sought to ensure availability for transfusions.

At the Harvard School of Public Health, Dr. Robert H. Geyer has been using a type of blood substitute which seems to satisfy the body needs when it is depleted of its normal content of blood.

Dr. Leland C. Clark Jr. at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine has been using another kind of synthetic blood which carries oxygen to blood tissue and removes the waste product, carbon dioxide. This satisfies one of the basic requirements for the maintenance of health.

The preliminary work is so successful that it is hoped that before long, blood substitutes will be used in many medical emergencies in parts of the country where blood is not readily available. Eventually, the brilliant discovery may even obviate the need for the very rare blood types that are so difficult to find for urgent transfusion.

An exciting statement was made by Dr. John J. Witt of the United States Public Health Service at the annual convention of the American Medical Association. He said (and predicted), that "the judicious use of the German measles or 'rubella' vaccine may permanently prevent another national catastrophe similar to the one which occurred six years ago when hundreds of malformed children were born after an epidemic."

It has been a year since the new German measles vaccine was given the stamp of approval for complete safety. So effective is this vaccine, that German measles will soon be added to that long list of illnesses wiped out by modern science.

All women of childbearing age should have the benefit of this protection, for German measles during pregnancy may harm the fetus and bring calamity to the newborn child. The slight side effects that follow the administration of the vaccine are insignificant and are not dangerous. No one need pay a penalty for carelessness or neglect by taking advantage of this remarkable precaution.

An interesting observation was made by Dr. Hail T. Lahti of Michigan. He has found that when patients are told that their recovery from surgery and discharge from the hospital will be short, this indeed does occur. He also found that the recovery period was hastened and that the need for pain-killing drugs was greatly reduced.

RELIGION TODAY

Pentagon Welcomes
Rev. Bob Jones

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

In its religious observances, as in other aspects of its gargantuan life, the Pentagon often moves in mysterious ways. Take two examples which form a fascinating contrast:

Example 1: In June, a group of laymen and clergy who were deeply concerned over the war in Indo-China asked for permission to hold memorial services in the Pentagon's concourse for David Prentice, who had been killed in Cambodia. This permission was refused, though the concourse is the site of regular religious services sponsored by the Chaplain's Office of the Military District of Washington.

The group decided to go ahead anyway, but they were promptly arrested for "obstructing the corridors" and "loud and unusual noises." (Dispassionate observers reported that the group's prayers could not have been heard more than 20 feet away.)

Had the Pentagon wanted to, it could have invited the 93 people involved to hold the services in private in its recently completed "prayer room." Instead, the incident was widely publicized, and religious journals throughout the nation carried a photograph of the Rev. Malcolm Boyd being arrested by a towering Pentagon police officer. Six college chaplains were also arrested, while kneeling at the foot of the concourse's American flag.

Example 2: On September 23, the guest preacher at the "Pentagon's Protestant Pulpit" will be a man of a totally different stripe, Dr. Bob Jones,

J. Dr. Jones is president-owner of South Carolina's unaccredited, hyper-fundamentalist, rigidly regimented, thoroughly segregated and adamantly anti-catholic Bob Jones University.

And what manner of man is Dr. Jones? Let him speak for himself:

On the Peace Corps: "It is at Kent State: 'These young people got exactly what was coming to them.'"

On the Peace Corps: "It is being used to work with Roman Catholic schools and organizations and is therefore promoting the worst kind of totalitarianism!"

He has also delivered himself of such sentiments as "What's doubtful is dirty" and "There's nothing wrong with extremism."

Even Billy Graham, a BJU alumnus and once the recipient of an honorary degree, has been denounced by Dr. Jones — as a liberal. (This caused Jones's pastor, former Southern Baptist Convention president Wallie Amos Criswell of Dallas, to describe Jones as "a juvenile crackpot!")

The Chaplain's Office which invited Dr. Jones assured this writer that "the invitation was extended at least 18 months ago, by a committee of chaplains who are all now retired. Only the intervention of the Chiefs of Chaplains of the Army, Navy or Air Force, or the Office of the Secretary of Defense, could result in the invitation being withdrawn."

This seems hardly likely to happen, for one of the trustees of Bob Jones University is reserve Major General J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

It will be intriguing to see what Pentagon police will do if Dr. Jones makes any "loud and unusual noises."

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

They say nothing is certain except death and taxes, but the aspiring bridge player would do well to add to these the certainty that every player is dealt 13 cards. The backbone of good card play, offensive or defensive, rests on the simple but often neglected foundation that each player starts with 13 cards.

Here is the type of situation that sometimes comes up. West leads a diamond against four spades. Declarer wins and plays the ace and another spade, losing to the king.

BENNET CERF

Try And Stop Me

Harvard boasts a club that's so exclusive that two future Presidents of the United States were blackballed. One member, however, grows indignant when his group is accused of being undemocratic. "To prove my point," he points out angrily, "the year I rowed on the varsity crew, I knew the names of all but the three men up front."

An understanding judge dealt leniently with a besodden dervish who explained mournfully, "Your Honor, I consider myself a pillar of the local temperance society. The trouble is that every night I find myself, for some unaccountable reason, as drunk as a coot."

A newly elected Senator came home from his freshman year in Washington with views that were radically different than the ones proclaimed in his campaign. A friend who had previously disagreed vehemently with his opinions told him, "I'm certainly glad that at long last you appear to have seen the light." "I didn't see the light," admitted the Senator. "I felt the heat."

Robert Townsend, in his provocative book, "Up the Organization," dismisses management consultants and outside "efficiency experts" as men who "borrow your watch to tell you

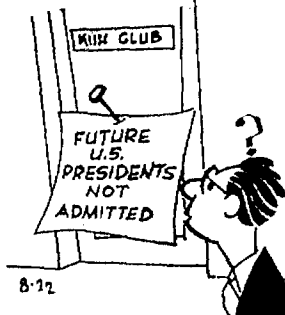

West tries to cash the queen of diamonds, but declarer ruffs. South then enters dummy with a trump and tries to elude finesse which loses to the king. If West, seeing dummy's long clubs, now gets nervous and impetuously leads the ace of hearts because he is afraid that South will discard his heart losers on the clubs, he hands declarer the contract.

West may make this play because he thinks that his only chance of defeating the contract is to find East with the king of hearts, but this reasoning is unsound, to say the least. West should return a club instead. This play cannot possibly lose.

West has at his beck and call all the information he requires to make the club return completely safe. He knows that South started with precisely five spades and a diamond, leaving him with seven cards in hearts and clubs.

If South has three clubs, he must have four hearts; if he has four clubs, he must have three hearts; if he has five clubs, he must have two hearts. In all these cases, South cannot possibly escape whatever number of heart losers he may have.

West's only correct procedure is to stand pat and let nature take its course. The danger that South's heart losers will disappear is more apparent than real.

what time it is and then walk off with it." He adds that never in his fabulously successful business career did he attend a board meeting that produced one workable proposal from a director.

BH COMPANY RECEIVES JOB TRAINING GRANT

Accused Teenager Goes Free

Officials Failed To Follow Rules Set By Courts

A 16-year-old Benton Harborite was freed from Berrien county jail Friday with unarmed robbery and larceny charges dismissed because he was denied a statutory right to preliminary examination within 10 days of arraignment.

Charges were dismissed by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian Hughes, and Lawrence Caldwell Ollens, 16, of 770 East Main street, was released at mid-day Friday.

Ollens faced a three-count charge of unarmed robbery, larceny from a person and attempted larceny from a person in connection with the theft of a wallet containing $100 from a woman in Benton Harbor on March 17. He had been jailed since March 18 in lieu of $500 bond and had been waived from juvenile into adult court.

His court-appointed defense counsel, Benton Harbor Atty. Roger Bittner, successfully argued that nearly a month's delay between Ollens' arraignment and preliminary examination was a denial of statutory right to a preliminary examination within 10 days of arraignment.

Judge Hughes signed an opinion quashing the charges on Wednesday and in his absence Judge Chester J. Byrns signed the order to quash on Friday.

Evening crowds have been taxing the capacity of the new facility. Last Sunday an estimated 800 persons were on hand.

He will sing "The Impossible Dream" from the musical play "Man of La Mancha" and two selections from "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever," the title song and "Come Back to Me."

Chief McClaren Presents Awards

BH Police, Civilians Cited For Heroism

Acts of heroism by officers and citizens were commended by the Benton Harbor police department Friday.

Chief William McClaren in presenting departmental awards to four civilians said the department was particularly grateful for citizen cooperation. "The police cannot be omnipresent. An alert citizenry is a great help to law enforcement."

The chief noted that two of the civilians risked their lives attempting to save the life of a woman who drowned in a traffic accident.

Six police officers received commendations, three of them involving life saving. One of the policemen was Benton township Patrolman Frank (Buzz) Holmes who apprehended a burglary suspect in a service station in the city while he was off duty. The civilians who received certificates of appreciation: Kenneth Bates, rural Benton Harbor, who dove into ship canal last year trying to save the life of Mrs. Adolph Donagville, Jr., whose car struck Bates' auto then plunged into the canal.

Paul Nimz, Coloma, who donned scuba gear and dove repeatedly into the canal after the woman trapped in the car. Nimz recovered the body.

Frank Fardello and Larry Fisher, Action Ambulance drivers, who reported a burglary at a jewelry store, then followed the suspects to aid in making the arrests and recovery of stolen property.

Officers who received departmental commendations:

Patrolman Robert Maessengale who refrained from shooting when a gun was pointed at him. Maessengale disarmed the man with the gun and made an arrest in a hostile crowd, using what McClaren called good judgment.

Patrolman James Little disarmed a citizen in capturing a burglary suspect. Little also was cited for another burglary case in which he arrested two persons.

Berrien Deputy Hurt Recapturing Suspect

A young Berrien county sheriff's deputy captured a fugitive near Bridgman early this morning, but was hospitalized with extremely painful back and stomach injuries in the process.

Injured was Deputy Randy Arnt, 23, of 1042 Carley Lane, St. Joseph. He was transported from near Bridgman to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph by Action ambulance. The trip took more than an hour, because of the pain. The ambulance took the smoother, but longer, I-94 route and averaged 15 miles an hour, the driver said.

CONDITION FAIR
Arnt this morning was reported in fair condition, the sheriff's department reported.

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Donald Jewell gave this account: Arnt and special deputy Donald Goldner picked up a man for investigation of driving under the influence of intoxicants. While returning from the arrest scene at Bridgman, city police there radioed and asked the deputies to check on another man, reported acting suspiciously, also at Bridgman.

Jewell said this man was picked up and both were being brought to the sheriff's department about 2:40 a.m. when the second man arrested jumped from the patrol car.

Jewell said the man jumped out on Shawnee road at Cleveland.

Deputy Arnt chased the fugitive into a field while Goldner turned the car around. When Goldner returned to the scene of the escape, Arnt had the fugitive in handcuffs in the road. Arnt became ill at this time.

INJURED IN FALL

Jewell said Arnt apparently struck an object when he fell while wrestling with the escapee. This apparently caused the stomach injury and aggravated the back. Arnt's mother, Mrs. Elaine Arnt, said her son has had back trouble for some time.

Arrested for drunk and disorderly and held on an open charge pending investigation of fleeing an officer was Paul Auringer, 21, Lake street, Bridgman.

Booked for driving under the influence of intoxicants was James W. Layman, 43, Bridgman. He was not involved in the escape, deputies said.

U.S. Paying $41,040 To Help Poor

Michigan Standard Alloys To Hire Those Who Finish

Michigan Standard Alloys, Inc., of Benton Harbor has been awarded a $41,040 grant by the U.S. Department of Labor for 10-week training of 24 industrial truck operators, according to Fourth District Congressman Edward Hutchinson (R-Pennville).

The trainees, to be recruited through the St. Joseph branch of the Michigan Employment Security commission, will be paid $2 an hour to start and $2.17 an hour after six weeks and will become fulltime MSA employees on successful completion of the course.

The labor department, Cong. Hutchinson said, made the contract award to the Benton Harbor firm under the JOBS (Job Opportunities in the Business Sector) program, a joint effort by the department and the National Alliance of Businessmen to hire and train disadvantaged jobless persons under conditions of private enterprise.

COSTS OFFSET

Funds are provided to companies to offset costs of recruiting and training workers, plus supportive services such as remedial and basic education, job coaching, orientation, minor medical care and transportation, where needed.

The labor department also has made JOBS program grants totaling $52,000 in River Rouge and Royal Oak to train nurses aides.

International Association of Machinists local 2140 of Benton Harbor has concurred in the labor department contract to MSA, Hutchinson said.

Jake Tetteh, company training director and job counselor, said the 10-week course likely will start the first or second week of September. The first six weeks of basic training will cover lift truck operation and material handling, teamwork, plus job-related education such as basic education, consumer buying, financial awareness, family budgeting, consumer credit and installment buying, credit unions, investing and savings.

Trainees will spend the last four weeks of training as fulltime employees and at the close of 10 weeks become fulltime employees.

St. Joseph Seamanship Course Set

St. Joseph flotilla of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will launch its educational season Sept. 9 with a course on basic seamanship and small boat handling.

Flotilla Commander Lee Hornack said the eight-week course will be held at Milton Junior high school, Maiden Lane at Lincoln avenue in South St. Joseph. It will be held in room 113.

The course is open to the public. Materials will be $3 per student. The educational course is another service to the boating public offered by the Coast Guard auxiliary, Hornack said.

Each weekend during the summer auxiliary units conduct safety patrols on their boats augmenting the regular Coast Guard vessels. Even while on outing in their boats and not on actual duty members of the St. Joseph flotilla have rendered assistance to over a dozen boaters in distress, so far this summer Hornack said.

Upon successful completion of the basic seamanship course, Hornack said, those persons owning boats will have the opportunity of becoming members of the flotilla.

Markstrom
Can Keep Victory

SOUTH HAVEN — Leonard Markstrom has been reaffirmed the winner of the Republican nomination for the District 5 seat (South Haven township) to the Van Buren County board of commissioners by the Van Buren county canvassing board.

Incumbent Charles Stein had petitioned the canvassing board for a recount after he had lost in the Aug. 4 primary election by three votes.

The five-member canvassing board ruled that the margin of 268-265 will stand after examining voting machines, absentee ballots and seven spoiled ballots.

Markstrom and Stein had both received identical number of votes on election day with the deciding margin coming from absentee ballots. The seven spoiled absentee ballots resulted from persons voting for both Republican and Democratic candidates.

Markstrom will be unopposed in the November election.

SOUTH HAVEN — Glenn Ford, 18, route 4, South Haven, demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned Friday in Seventh District court on a charge of committing larceny from a building.

He was released on his own recognizance pending the Aug. 31 preliminary examination.

He paid $1.40 per pound for the overall champion. Standing with Williamson are his grandson Mark, his wife Elvina and daughter Alayne. Williamson, as usual was a busy buyer this year. Lawrence School May Have To Delay Opening

Teacher Contract Not Settled

LAWRENCE — The scheduled Sept. 1 start of classes for Lawrence school district students appeared uncertain today because of a lack of a new master contract between the district and its teachers.

Negotiators for both sides said Saturday a settlement appeared to be some distance away and the teachers have voted not to work without one.

835 STUDENTS
Affected would be the district's 835 students.

Talks between the district and the Lawrence Education Association, representing the district's 34 teachers, began in May.

State mediators have been called into the talks and have held two sessions Aug. 6 and Aug. 18 with the factions. A third session is scheduled Aug. 28.

Andrew Jurczak, chairman of the LEA bargaining committee, said the situation in negotiations deteriorated in July when a board-employed attorney entered the talks. According to Jurczak, the attorney, James Match, Lansing, presented 15 additions or changes to the proposed contract.

As of that date, Jurczak said only three major items were left to be settled as far as the teachers were concerned.

Jurczak said the non-economic package in the contract was considered critical by the LEA.

Wes Harding, schools superintendent, described salaries, the grievance procedure and the protection of teachers as far as the determination of legal liability, the main issues now.

Harding, in commenting on the attorney, said "... I don't think that (his employment) is out of line. It is certainly no more than many other boards are doing in recent years."

The superintendent declined to speculate on the outcome of the talks or the possible change in the school starting date.

UNEXPECTED VISITOR: Two Benton Harbor area men fishing Friday afternoon along Mill creek, two miles northwest of Keeler in Van Buren county, killed this rattlesnake which had been lying about four feet from the spot where one of them was standing. David Edelberg, 22, of 2128 Irving drive, Benton Harbor, left, and Ernest Daisy, 22, Route 2, Box 409-K, Benton Harbor, said the snake sounded its rattles as Daisy walked toward Edelberg to deposit a trout he had just caught. He was about to place his foot down about a foot from the snake when it rattled. Edelberg said the snake began moving toward its den a few feet away and was entering it when he hit it once with a stick and then pulled it out of the den to kill it. The snake is 31 inches long and has nine rattles. The men believed each rattle represented one year of age. (Staff photo)

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Area retailers and businessmen shelled out $44,030.10 for 227 of the county's finest meat animals yesterday at the 25th annual Berrien County Youth fair's livestock auction.

An all-time single day record crowd of 20,585 attended the fair Friday, bringing the total attendance figure to 65,139 going into the final day of the fair. The record for the five-day event was set last year when 80,555 attended the fair.

Thanks to yesterday's record breaking crowd, an attendance of 15,417 today will break the all-time mark and fair officials have high hopes that the record will be broken.

Last night the main grandstand was literally overflowing with people who came to see the first two performances of popular singer B.J. Thomas. Thomas will perform again tonight at 7 and 9 o'clock.

Events slated for today were tractor, pony and garden tractor, pulling contests at 8:30 a.m., 1 p.m., and 2 p.m., respectively.

Governor William G. Milliken is expected to make an appearance at the fair today. An informal press conference is scheduled for 5 p.m. at the Republican booth, and he will ride in the evening parade through the fairgrounds at 6:15 p.m.

Friday's auction went off like clock work, thanks to the excellent calling of auctioneers John Glassman of Eau Claire, and Harold Howe of Buchanan, and master of ceremonies Ben Nye of St. Joseph.

At the auction 227 prime meat animals at prices that averaged well above prevailing market quotations were bought by various buyers.

FAIRLY BIG BUYER

DeBaun Williamson, owner of Dee's Food Market of Harbert, bought both the grand champion market steer and hog, and the reserve champion lamb and hog, and the grand champion pens of two, hogs and lambs.

Williamson paid $1.40 per pound for the grand champion steer. Its owner Tom Walton of Three Oaks, received $1,603 for the 1,145-pound Angus-cross.

Dale Robson of Niles, sold his grand champion market hog to Williamson for $330 per pound. The 195-pound hog brought Robson $643.50. The price paid per pound for both animals by Williamson was believed by fair officials to be the highest ever.

George Ritter, owner of Ritter's Restaurant, Stevensville, paid $3 per pound for the grand champion market lamb, owned by Gail Chesnut of Three Oaks. Gail received a check for $285 for the 95-pound champion.

Gail, who also had the reserve champion market lamb, told master of ceremonies Ben Nye before putting the lamb on the block that she would accept only the average auction price for her reserve champion and the rest of the money would be donated to the Youth Fair Association.

Buyers responded to Gail's thoughtful gesture, and after some heavy bidding the 95-pound lamb was finally sold to Williamson for $2.25 per pound. The average auction price for lambs yesterday was 54 1/2 cents per pound. The Chesnuts are relatively newcomers to the area, having moved to Three Oaks from Illinois last September.

ST. JOSEPH BUYER

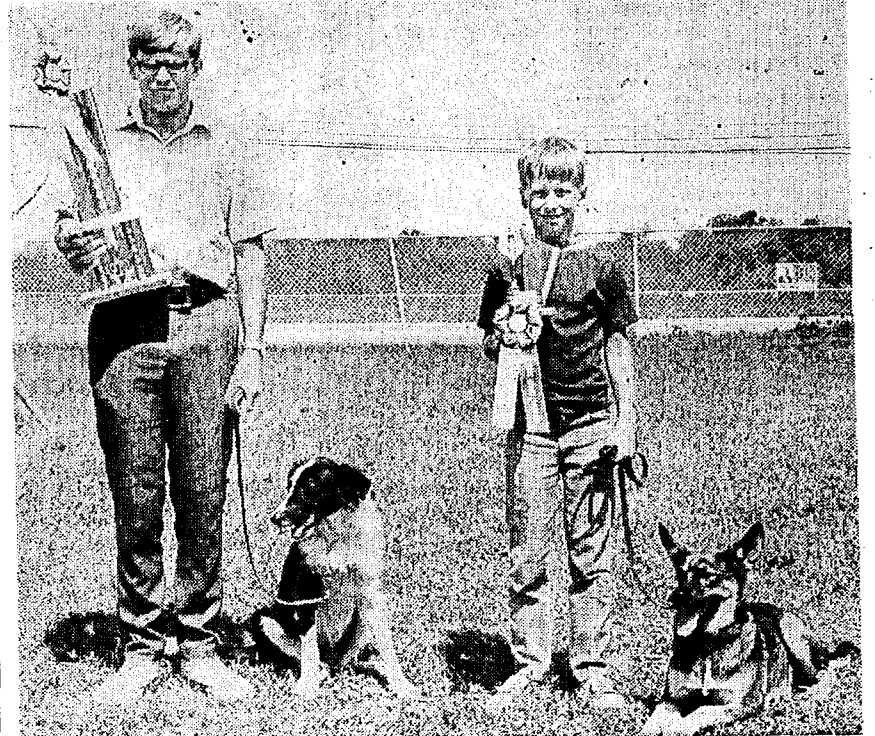

Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., of St. Joseph, purchased the overall reserve champion steer from owner Bill McCarthy of Eau Claire, for $833. His 1,190-pound Charolais brought 70 cents per pound.

The grand champion Hereford owned by Barb Cuthbert of Niles, was bought by Inter-City bank of Benton Harbor, for $552.75. The 1,005-pound animal brought 55 cents per pound.

Auto Specialties also purchased the fair's top Shorthorn from Scott Foster of Niles, for $465. The steer weighed 930 pounds.

The reserve champion Angus and Shorthorn owned by Bruce Foster of Niles, were purchased by Whippool corporation of St. Joseph, and Custom Farm Services of Niles, respectively. The Angus brought $480 and the Shorthorn $445.50.

Anti-Goose Lake Ordinance Drafted

LANSING (AP)—In the aftermath of the controversial Goose Lake rock festival, Gov. William Milliken reported Friday that state legal officers have drafted a proposed ordinance which local communities may use to regulate large outdoor gatherings.

VALENTINE SPECS: The president of San Francisco's Board of Supervisors, Dianne Feinstein, says her heart-shaped specs may be too much of a novelty for public wear, but they provide a warm touch in the sanctuary of her office.

Milliken mentioned the proposed ordinance, but gave no specific details, in a statement designed as a follow-up to an antidrug program he outlined earlier this week.

LAW DRAWN UP

The governor said his legal office, in cooperation with Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's office, had drafted the ordinance aimed at "adequately protecting public health and safety."

"I will be meeting within the next few days with local officials to explain this ordinance and to urge its adoption," Milliken said.

He added, however, that "a thorough approach to the drug abuse problem must go beyond short range, control-oriented measures. The real solution must include long range commitments to action which will probe to the roots of the problems and not hit only at the symptoms which appear on the surface."

Milliken and others had harsh words of criticism after the rock festival near Jackson. They condemned open drug sales and public nudity during the three-day event at the private Goose Lake Park, owned by contractor Robert Sogger.

MEETINGS PLANNED

A spokesman for the governor said Milliken plans two meetings with local officials in the coming week to discuss the proposed ordinance.

Milliken will be joined at the sessions by State Police Director Col. Frederick Davis, Dr. Maurice Reizen, director of the State Department of Public Health, and legal adviser Joseph Thibodeau.

The meetings are planned for Monday at Kalamazoo City Hall and Tuesday at the Oakland County Courthouse in Pontiac.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Granting the public free access to Federal Aviation Administration data on airline maintenance problems would do more harm than good for aviation safety, says FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer.

NARROWED DOWN

The 38-year-old Berkeley state senator would say only that he had narrowed his preference to five men.

"It's impossible to find one guy to fill the whole bill," Levin said when cornered on a landing between hotel floors. "You end up owing so much to so many people."

Some party observers speculated that two former congressmen Paul Todd of Kalamazoo and Weston Vivian of Ann Arbor, were among the front-runners on Levin's list.

But leaders of the surprisingly unified party face a difficult choice in filling another post that bore on the lieutenant governor's nomination.

Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams appeared solidly in control of one of the party's two Supreme Court nominations, but behind the scenes struggling went on late into the night between another one-time party leader, ex-Gov. John Swainson and T. John Lesinski, chief judge of the State Court of Appeals, for the other seat.

By Friday, most top party leaders privately had endorsed Richard Austin for secretary of state. Austin, 57, was only narrowly defeated last year in his bid to become Detroit's first black mayor.

TOP SPOTS

Rounding out the top spots on the party's roster were U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, both veterans who were virtually assured of renomination.

As the convention got underway this afternoon on the floor of the nearby downtown Civic Auditorium, the major decision left to be settled on the floor centered on various education posts.

More than 25 candidates were in the running for eight positions, two each on the State Board of Education, and the respective boards of the University of Michigan, Wayne State and Michigan State Universities.

Levin, initially, refrained from entering those contests, saying only that he hoped to have at least one woman on the ticket. One possibility was Mrs. Annette Miller, running for the State Board of Education after losing to August Scholle, long-time Michigan AFL-CIO head, in an Oakland County congressional primary race.

Sen. Levin Keeps Them All Guessing

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Sander Levin kept followers in suspense early today, biding his time and his options before naming a running mate at the party's convention.

Smiling easily but speaking shrewdly, Levin shook hands Friday night up and down the crowded corridors and back stairwells of the aging Panslind Hotel, where convention delegates gathered for endless rounds of "jabbering" and maneuvering.

The 38-year-old Berkeley state senator would say only that he had narrowed his preference to five men.

Cambodian Aid Charge Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., says he suspects U.S. technicians may be sent into Cambodia to operate electronic equipment supplied under a new arms aid program. The State Department denies any such plan.

FESTIVAL'S AFTERMATH: At least four homes, all within a half-mile of the site of August 7-9 rock festival, are for sale since the festival's end. Area residents say more are offered but without signs. No homes for sale could be located across the lake from the park. (AP Wirephoto)

'For Sale' Signs Go Up All Around Goose Lake

JACKSON (AP) — Rock fans at Goose Lake "were walking around nude just across the road. We cannot raise a family under such conditions," complained one resident of the neighborhood.

Disapproving owners of at least two homes are trying to move out of the area.

Mrs. Lloyd Stoker said she and her husband decided to sell shortly after the festival brought an estimated 200,000 exuberant young fans down on the peaceful Rock Lake locale seven miles south of Jackson two weekends ago.

She said nude rock participants wandering across the street from the house, festival noise pounding from electronic amplifiers and monumental traffic jams brought about their decision to sell out and move.

She also said the family was harassed even before the festival began by park workers shooting flares over their house.

Mrs. Richard Bower, who said her house is for sale "if we can get what we want" for it, moved into Jackson with her three children during the festival while her husband remained to look after the property. They have 200 acres adjoining the rear of the park.

"We were afraid there would be trouble," Mrs. Bower explained.

As an added precaution, Mrs. Bower said they moved their cows out of the area over the festival weekend.

Nude youths wandered onto their property and some corn was stolen from their fields, she said, adding that her husband found a pair of sunglasses and what they believed to be a hashish pipe on their property after the dust settled.

Robert Trolz, another Goose Lake area property owner, recently put up his "For Sale" sign, according to his teenage daughter, Elizabeth, who said, however, that her father had previously spoken of selling.

A fourth "For Sale" sign was posted in front of another nearby residence but no one was home to comment. However, a woman who said she lived in the area suggested residents were upset about the festival.
